

Figures on the New York Flag

Two goddesses are on the New York flag. They are Justice and Liberty. They are Greek goddesses. She is normally blind folded and carrying a sword and scale.

Justice is the most recognized legal symbol. The scale represents equal treatment towards people. This Justice statue is based on the story of battle between Good vs. Evil. Her eyes are fixed on evil to her right and she is ready to protect the forces of good with her sword.

Liberty is the other goddess on the New York flag. She stands for freedom. At her feet is a crown that represents freedom from England at the end of the Revolutionary War.

These are New York's images on the state flag.
